The Preferred American
Beef Breed

The Tinney Tradition...

Since the early 1980s, Tinney Farms has been a mainstay in the breed. Our goal has been to produce the highest quality breeding stock that can perform in the show ring as well as the pasture, thus producing more National Champions than any other breeder and winning numerous performance-based awards. Tinney Farms has always stood behind our product and will continue to do so. Tinney Farms genetics can be found in many of the top herds across the country and our genetics will continue to play an important role in the Santa Gertrudis breed.

Vegas is a very exciting young Santa Gertrudis herd sire out of 2013 NC High Roller. Recently in the Mid-Coast International Super Sale in Houston, Texas, 50% interest and full possession sold to Harris Riverbend Farms and Briggs Ranches for $50,000.

His moderation in frame and "industry kind" has caught the attention of many in the Santa Gertrudis breed as well as cattlemen outside the breed both commercially and internationally. Vegas was shown across the country and won many awards as a calf, but his real recognition comes from how many have seen him and declared him "the right type" for the breed to be accepted and sold into the commercial industry.

He is backed by consistent, predictable genetics in both his sire and dam along with grandsires and granddams. He is standing and collecting at Integrated Breeders Services in Wheelock, Texas. He is putting up very viable, high quality semen. The demand is high so do not miss the opportunity to add 777 Vegas 411 into your breeding program.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S REPORT

By John Ford

(361) 592-9357 | jford@santagertrudis.com

A majority of my last 40 years has been spent fairly close to our nation's southern border, first in far west Texas then followed by years in deep south Texas. One would think, following that length of time, I would have mastered the combination of Spanish and English that is the prevalent language of the border region. Unfortunately, try as I might, I am no more fluent today than I was on the day I first arrived in Alpine, Texas, during the mid-1970s. Hours spent listening to Rosetta Stone repeat simple phrases (Hola, cómo estás) have proved futile. I greatly admire individuals who move seamlessly from one language to another without losing a beat. I have come to the conclusion that I have no aptitude for grasping the most basic fundamentals of another language.

With that in mind, it is easy to understand my shock when the speaker at a recent seedstock marketing seminar stated that successful bull marketing requires the seller be fluent in a number of languages. However, I was relieved when he went on to say that in today's market, seedstock producers must be fluent in the language of their breed as well as the language of the other breeds that are also competing for a slice of the commercial bull market. Simply stated, we should be well-versed in the attributes of our breed as well as knowledgeable about competitive breeds and their selection tools.

Most members of SGBI are fluent in the language of Santa Gertrudis cattle; however, true mastery of the Santa Gertrudis language requires an understanding of the tools used to validate performance. A working knowledge of Santa Gertrudis' genetic evaluation and indices combined with additional information, such as ultrasound scan data, actual gain test results and familiarity with the Percentile by Trait chart, allow performance facts to be effectively translated to commercial cattle-buying customers. Successful marketers also need a basic knowledge of competing breeds' decision-making tools. For example, the Angus breed's $Beef measures traits in the feedlot and on the rail, but does not include any traits at or before weaning. While a potential commercial bull buyer might be impressed by a large $Beef number, it has no bearing on his or her profitability if the calf crop is marketed at weaning, since it is a terminal index. Having some degree of fluency in Angus (a working knowledge of their measurement and selection tools) allows you to point out that profitability at weaning is driven by birth weight, milk and weaning weight, and is not influenced by the traits used to calculate a $Beef number, no matter how impressive.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

By Wes McDaniel

(770) 354-7802 | mcdanielwb@gmail.com

Are you making the most of your SGBI membership? I, like many of you, am a member of a variety of professional, social, educational and religious organizations. Every year I renew my membership in these various organizations, sometimes paying hundreds of dollars merely to have my name listed in a membership directory. I recently received a membership renewal form from a professional organization and it sparked a question for me: Am I really getting value out of my membership?

Fortunately, I have never had those same feelings about my SGBI membership. For me, membership in SGBI goes beyond having my name listed in a directory, though it has included such notables as the Klebergs, John Connally, Winthrop Rockefeller and Elvis Presley. SGBI membership has given me the opportunity to be a part of a community of individuals who understand and realize the value of Santa Gertrudis genetics within the cattle industry.

When you become a member of SGBI, you serve a vital role in allowing SGBI to grow and continue to support the story of the "American Original" breed of cattle. However, becoming a member of SGBI is just the first step. I recently listened to a sermon in which the topic of membership was discussed. The preacher said, "In order for you to plug in, you have to be in." It sounds simple and, frankly, it is, but he went on to share that in order to experience the fullness of the church community, you have to be willing to lean in. Same goes for our SGBI community.

SGBI is fortunate to have a diverse membership whose professional talents and interests are wide-ranging. The success of SGBI is built upon individual members using their talents and exploring their interests within the organization. If you are not already involved with SGBI through a committee, I encourage you to explore these opportunities to lean in. There is great truth in the saying "You can only get out what you are willing to put in."

You never know what might happen when you choose to lean in. Almost six years ago, I made a decision to get more involved with SGBI. Looking back, it was one of the best decisions I ever made. My SGBI membership has provided me the opportunity to travel the country and establish friendships that will last my lifetime. My SGBI membership allowed me to meet my wife, Jessica. My SGBI membership has allowed me to strengthen the relationships I have with my parents and siblings. And through our SGBI membership, my family and I have utilized tools available to all members to improve our herd.

So I ask you, are you getting all you can out of your SGBI membership? Our association has so much to offer if you are willing to take a leap of faith and lean in! 🤠

Understanding the language of the industry is equally important. Most breed associations compute their expected progeny differences (EPDs) in separate analyses and each breed has a different base point; therefore, direct EPD comparisons can't be made. However, utilization of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Meat Animal Research Center (USDA MARC) across-breed EPDs allows producers to compare EPDs for animals from different breeds. Our breed has made tremendous improvement in growth and milk, and it is evident when examining the 2015 USDA MARC across-breed EPD tool. Suppose a Limousin bull has a weaning weight EPD of +50 and a Santa Gertrudis bull has a weaning weight EPD of +10. Don't be fooled by the bigger Limousin number; once the adjustment factor is applied, a true performance comparison can be made. The Santa Gertrudis bull, when mated to cows of a third, unrelated breed, will sire calves, on average, 17.4 pounds heavier than the Limousin bull. Adjustment factors are calculated for 18 breeds and their measured traits each year. The 2015 USDA MARC across-breed adjustment factor can be easily accessed on the Internet and is a valuable industry tool.

Don't be content simply to be fluent in the many languages of the beef industry; instead, become a language professor. Have the ability to move seamlessly from one breed language to another, enabling you to educate others about our breed. After all, the Santa Gertrudis language is one of profitability. 🤠

Membership in SGBI allows the breeder to record and register purebred offspring. All members receive an annual subscription to the Santa Gertrudis USA, the official publication of SGBI.

Services to individuals, corporations, partnerships and firms that are not members of SGBI are limited to the transfer and classification of previously registered Santa Gertrudis at substantially higher rates

Assigned herd numbers with SGBI are nontransferable, except with the approval of the Board of Directors. The membership and herd number held by a member of a family who dies or retires from the purebred Santa Gertrudis business may be transferred to another member of the same family.

Produce a Calf that is Profitable for All Industry Sectors

Photos by Marsha Roszell Wiley

With about 160 total cows, 60 purebreds and the rest in the Star 5 program, the Wiley Ranch has become a leader in promoting the Santa Gertrudis breed in the Southeast and Gulf Coast regions.

Crediting his father, Kim, for the family's interest in the breed, Erik Wiley said it was decided early on, "If we ever have cattle, we will get Santa Gertrudis."

Along with the breed's ability to adapt, the association and other breeders were also a pull for Erik and Kim to start their breeding program.

"Everybody involved with the breed is so nice," Erik said. "It's a very close-knit group."

Showing in local and 4-H shows, the herd has become not just a business venture, but also a family event. At ages 15 and 8, Erik's son and daughter have both become involved in the breed, with his son showing in 4-H and becoming a part of the breed's junior organization. The National Junior Santa Gertrudis Association (NJSJA), founded in 1979, offers opportunities for children and young adults under 21 to participate in shows as well as leadership contests, such as public speaking, brain bowl and livestock judging.

"This association is not just a junior program; it is a family-oriented association that helps to polish the skills, values and responsibilities that the family has already instilled in these young people," the NJSJA objective states.

In addition to the extended family the Wileys have gained, for the last six years, the cattle have been the ideal addition to the row crops raised on the 5,000-acre family farm, which is now bringing in the fourth generation.

In 2009, the Wileys joined the Santa Gertrudis family with the purchase of their first two cows from Wendt Ranch at Bay City, Texas. Dan Wendt and his wife Jane have raised purebred Santa Gertrudis cattle since 1954, selling cattle to South Africa, Namibia, Morocco, Australia, Brazil, Paraguay, Honduras, Mexico, Canada and Russia. Some of their performance-tested bulls include All Star 5876, Geronimo, Partner 5273 and Superman 1024.

Erik credits the Wendts for some of his firsthand knowledge of the breed. They also played a huge role in educating the Wileys about what to look for when judging cattle for purchase. Known for their docility, along with their ability to adapt to a variety of climates, including the long, hot, humid summers known to the south, the breed was the perfect fit for the Wileys. Erik says their great mothering ability has been another bonus of the breed. "Their above-average milk production and natural protective maternal instinct makes calving season pretty easy," Erik said.

The breed, popular throughout the southern states, has been easily marketable, and selling cattle from Louisiana to Florida and other surrounding states, the Wileys decided early on to focus on the breed traits, instead of numbers of cattle.

"When we first started out, we wanted numbers," Erik said. "But we culled and went to traits." With priorities on weaning weight and yearling weight, their herd has become one to be proud of.

"The Wiley Ranch, located in central Louisiana, has built a Santa Gertrudis herd that highlights the breed's versatility and its ability to complement English and European cattle in a crossbreeding program," said John Ford, SGBI executive director. "Located in a region where Bos indicus-influenced cattle are a necessity for long-term viability, the Wiley Ranch is focused on producing cattle that are efficient, fertile and, most importantly, profitable for them and their cattle-buying customers."

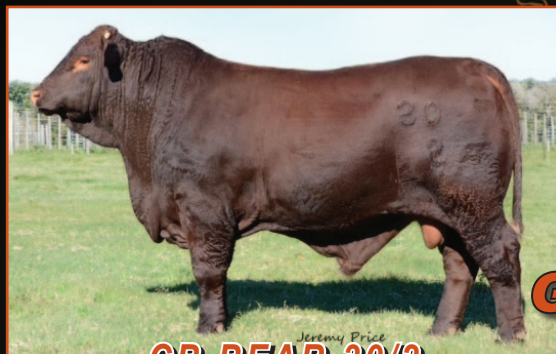

The Wiley family is quick to point out that infusing Santa Gertrudis genetics into a commercial program enhances growth and improves maternal traits without sacrificing carcass quality, Ford shared. "Following years of black-hided on black-hided breeding schemes, southern cow-calf producers are looking for alternatives that will increase profitability and ensure long-term viability. The Wiley Ranch is a perfect example of a southern operation that has matched the right breed, Santa Gertrudis, to their Louisiana environment in order to produce a calf that is profitable for all industry sectors." 🐄

SANTA GERTRUDIS Juniors

By Colt Sherrill, At-Large Director

My name is Colt Sherrill and I'm a sophomore at the University of North Carolina-Wilmington. I've reached my final year as a junior member and I've been reminiscing about the good times and experiences I've had with the breed. One memory that comes to mind is flying to the Fort Worth Stock Show in January 2010 for the National Jr. Santa Gertrudis Association

Board of Directors meeting. After being booked into a hotel room without beds and getting stuck in traffic for a parade in downtown Dallas, my brother and I decided to call Micah Morgan for directions to the barns, only to find out that we'd arrived for the meeting a week early. Despite losing $500 for the plane ticket, the memories I'm left with are priceless.

With numerous state fairs fast approaching, I encourage all of you to travel to a show that's out of your district or one that you've never been to before. The North Carolina State Fair's Gert show is growing steadily, and will be held Oct. 16-17. No matter what show it is, attending one you wouldn't normally go to is a great experience. You never know what placings you might bring home, but more important than that are the friends you'll make and the memories that will last forever. Just make sure you go on the right weekend! 🍄

NATIONALS

June is junior nationals month and junior members come together to compete in purebred and Star 5 divisions, and leadership contests like public speaking, cattle judging, photography and more. Annually, Santa Gertrudis breeders donate one heifer to the exhibitor of each class winner in the purebred show, and donate a heifer to the winner of the Star 5 show. At the next year's junior nationals, the donated heifers compete for their own championship. The week-long event ends with a formal awards banquet.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Annually, the National Santa Gertrudis Youth Foundation awards approximately $30,000 in scholarships to high school seniors. Deserving youth vie for scholarships, and are recognized for their accomplishments at junior nationals.

GOALS

Held every other year for intermediates and seniors, the Gerts Ongoing Advanced Leadership Summit is a camp full of activities and workshops to aid junior Santa Gertrudis members in becoming effective, compassionate and influential leaders.

See page 10 of this issue for a membership application.

Now is the Time to be in the Santa Gertrudis Business

More than three decades ago, Jim and Dolores Corporron selected Santa Gertrudis cattle, largely for their self-sufficiency. Today, Jim is still a believer in the breed, with a long list of reasons to raise them.

Corporron Acres of Schulenburg, Texas, recently celebrated 20 years of registering purebred Santa Gertrudis cattle. Prior to that, with the help of his father-in-law, Jim logged roughly 20 years of what he calls “on-the-job training” with commercial cattle.

Home to about 250 momma cows and a commercial herd of Star 5 Santa Gertrudis-based females, Corporron Acres is one of the breed’s biggest proponents, and a strong voice for American beef breeds in general, as was demonstrated earlier this year at one of the country’s largest cattle shows. Corporron Acres won the overall grand champion pen of heifers at the San Antonio Stock Show. A panel of 13 judges made the selection. The five 26-month-old Santa Gertrudis x Hereford females with Angus calves at side sold for $5,700 each. Now in its 24th year, the contest and subsequent sale are proven gauges of trends in the cattle industry.

In a constantly changing beef industry, the Santa Gertrudis breed is in a very enviable spot, according to John Ford, SGBI executive director. “Challenging environmental conditions and heterosis-losing breeding strategies, combined with a volatile business climate, have commercial cow-calf operators, feeders and packers searching for animals capable of performing profitably regardless of the condition or situation,” Ford points out. “Industry members have taken notice of the Santa Gertrudis genetic package, one that is validated by a sound comprehensive genetic evaluation. There is no doubt today’s commercial producers appreciate the breed’s longevity and focus on profitability. Utilizing the Santa Gertrudis female as the foundation, Corporron Acres and Dos Bros Ranch have developed a program that showcases the versatility of the breed, producing a profitable animal for the commercial cow-calf producer, feeder and packer.”

In 1973, Jim set out to find a low-maintenance breed that basically would take care of itself during the week. “Early on my father-in-law helped with the cattle, but they were required to take care of themselves for the most part. They did that and so much more,” he recalls.

In addition to their self-sufficiency, the cattle exhibit many attributes that keep Jim involved in the breed. “I am impressed with their efficiency, fertility and extra profits from gainability. Plus, these cattle are very adaptable to a wide range of environments and, perhaps more impressive, is that they thrive under less than desirable conditions. They excel in crossbreeding programs and their genetics are very complementary to all breeds,” Jim says.

“The attention that the Corporron-Dos Bros operation has placed on economically relevant traits has resulted in a cowherd that truly represents the association’s claim of Profitable – Predictable – Productive,” Ford added.

The Corporrons didn’t transition from commercial to registered cattle until after Jim retired in 1995 at the age of 61. Jim is a co-founder of Kent Electronics, which grew into multiple subsidiaries and emerged on the New York Stock Exchange in 1986. His business success required him to travel about half of every year, but he was eager to spend more time with his wife Dolores and their family. “Dolores had some things she wanted to do, even though that, too, meant more travel. But it turned out it was exactly the right thing to do. We had some really great times before she got sick,” said Jim, 81. Dolores passed away in January 2009, a little more than two years after being diagnosed with ovarian cancer. They were married 54 years.

Corporron Acres shares its marketing and website with Dos Bros Ranch. The name “Dos Bros” was coined to stand for “two brothers,” in this case, Jim and Dolores’s twin sons, Randy and Rodney. Rodney’s family took over ownership of Dos Bros after Randy and his family started Hidden Antler Ranch, with locations near LaGrange and Hallettsville, Texas. Hidden Antler Ranch is dedicated to breeding and selling trophy deer.

Rodney is actively involved in Corporron Acres. His son Connor, 22, recently finished his second year at Blinn College in Brenham, Texas, and is getting "on-the-job training" at both Hidden Antler Ranch and the Corporron-Dos Bros cattle operations.

The family's longevity in the cattle business, according to Jim, is due in part to selecting a low-maintenance, highly productive breed. As a "gentleman rancher," Jim knew that he and Dolores would always be splitting their time between Houston, where his business was located, and the ranch. Even when the herd grew to nearly 400 head, circa 2008, they've never had more than two outside employees. Jim's business background taught him to hire good people and then let them do their jobs. Jessie Mendel has been with Corporron Acres for 21 years, and has the title of operations manager. Primo Gonzalez, their herdsman, has been there 15 years. "There's no way we could have done all this without them on our team," said Jim appreciatively.

Corporron Acres sells cattle both private treaty and at a number of select purebred and all-breed consignment sales. Because demand has been outpacing supply, he also buys 20-30 purebred females throughout the year to replenish his cattle numbers. Their performance during recent drought conditions reinforced his belief in Santa Gertrudis. "They will thrive under less than desirable conditions and adapt to a wide range of environments," he said. "Perhaps most important right now, they excel in crossbreeding programs. Their genetics are very complementary to the popular English breeds."

The herd includes genetics from Briggs Ranches, Victoria, Texas; Wendt Ranches, Bay City, Texas; Harris Riverbend Farm, Cleburne, Texas; and Grandview Farms, Hamilton, Ala., just to name a few. These cattle represent more than 100 years of combined breeding of top Santa Gertrudis cattle. Some of Jim's first cattle came from George "Red" Novak, of nearby Moravia, Texas, in Lavaca County and the 2 S Ranch in Schulenburg.

Jim loves the business side of the cattle industry and he's more than optimistic about Corporron Acres today. Based on his experience, there's never been a better time to be in the Santa Gertrudis business.

Jim is a past president of SGBI, serving a two-year term starting in 2003. He co-founded the Bluebonnet Sale in Hallettsville, Texas, held each spring since 2002, and is a long-time partner in the Tri-Star Sale at Briggs Ranches, Bloomington, Texas, each fall. The Mid-Coast Santa Gertrudis Association awarded him "Breeder of the Year" in 2011. 🐾

THE MONTANO O/X RANCH: An Air of Gratitude

Things have a way of coming full circle for fourth-generation operator Stacey Montano of O/X Ranch, who now works alongside his daughters, fifth-generation producers Briana and Krystle, on their homestead 15 miles south of Las Vegas, N.M.

Stacey himself didn't grow up living on the farm, but spent every summer working on his grandfather's operation, starting at about age 7. His family has owned and worked land in the San Agustin Valley – with its plains to the east and mountains to the west – since the mid-1800s; there, most land stems from 500-year-old Spanish, then Mexican, land grants.

Stacey and his wife Debbie, along with Krystle and Briana, raise alfalfa and native grasses, and manage 40 head of Santa Gertrudis, focusing on high-quality expected progeny differences (EPDs) and show animals.

This wasn't always the case, as it seems most Santa Gertrudis seedstock producers have an entry tale worth documenting.

The story goes that as long-time purebred breeder Roland Sanchez, M.D., walked the stalls of the New Mexico State Fair as a teenager, he fell in awe of the Santa Gertrudis cattle from Greer Garson's famed Forked Lightning Ranch. He made good on his vow to own one someday – and the rest, as they say, is history – which tends to repeat itself.

It's fitting, then, that when Stacey attended the same state fair in '91, he purchased his first Santa Gertrudis purebred heifer from the Sanchez family. "It was only a short time after that that we made the trip to Tweet Kimball's Cherokee Ranch in Colorado to buy seven pairs," recalled Stacey, who then sold his commercial herd. "And that's how we got started."

Ever since Stacey can remember, there have been Santa Gertrudis on the farm – commercial at first. "This was mainly because of my grandfather's location near the sale barn and famed Forked Lightning Ranch," Stacey explained.

The Montanos have bought Santa Gertrudis cattle from Indiana, North Carolina, Texas, Missouri, Mississippi "and just about everywhere," he shared. "We always admired them as beautiful-looking animals. Now, we're trying to create better ones and improve on the next generation. It's always a work in progress."

Briana, now firmly rooted in the day-to-day management of O/X Ranch, concurs. "We manage with the customer in mind. Our animals have to perform in conditions like high altitude, hot summers and cold winters. If the cattle aren't working for our customer, then we're not doing our job," she said.

Briana believes the breed has made great strides in recent years, citing such key drivers as genetic testing, better performance indicators, new technology and improved marketing capabilities. "We're really seeing a difference, and that's where we focus ... trying to raise our cattle to give purebred breeders opportunities and commercial producers animals that perform. Ultimately, our job is to make them money," she said.

O/X Ranch has produced many champions. One of the family's fondest memories involves a homegrown female named Grand Champion at the 2012 Houston Livestock Show. Briana also won a heifer from the National Junior Santa Gertrudis Heifer Show, donated by Delmo Payne of Grandview Farms in Alabama. She was named the Grand Champion Donated Heifer the following year.

Briana and Krystle showed cattle from the time they were old enough. "The National Junior Heifer Show became our passion," recalled Briana. That, and traveling to many open shows as well. "Those were our family vacations."

They haven't missed a national junior show since the girls were young, and Stacey said he wouldn't trade those experiences for the world. "We support the association 100 percent." As proof, Stacey has served on the Membership Committee and is presently on the SGBI Youth Activities Committee. He is also vice president of the Rocky Mountain Santa Gertrudis Association, where the Montano family works closely with the Sanchez family to promote and expand the Santa Gertrudis footprint in the west.

Briana has served on the junior board of directors, as national princess and as national junior president from 2011 to 2012. She is currently on the SGBI Long-Range Planning Committee as well as the Shows and Exhibits Committee.

This year, the Montanos' active involvement with the Rocky Mountain Santa Gertrudis Association included the organization of its first female sale, named the "Spring Runoff Sale," which ran in conjunction with the popular Red Doc Farms' Red Hot Bull Sale.

"We could never give back enough to the association for what it has given our family," said Briana. "It's the best association out there. It provided me and my sister with leadership skills as well as scholarships to help us make our mark on the world." Stacey said college wasn't an option for his kids – they were going. "But the junior program helped us educate our children," he added. Krystle is a pharmacy student at the University of New Mexico who contemplates practicing close to home one day. Briana earned a degree from Texas Tech before returning to the ranch. Her dad says she was bound and determined to come back and make a living here. "There's no other place I'll live," she added.

At the end of the day, the Montanos are audibly gracious and happy with their lives as Santa Gertrudis breeders. They understand that to gain, you also have to give. And what goes around, comes around.

"I just think the Santa Gertrudis breed is wonderful," Stacey said. "Hopefully when my children have children they'll be part of it." 🐄

The KING RANCH

*Your Source for the "Original" Santa
Gertrudis Genetics*

Established 1853

When building a program, you must start with a solid foundation. Whether you are breeding seedstock or commercial animals, you need to start with a quality product that will turn a profit. King Ranch purebred Santa Gertrudis and Santa Gertrudis-influenced genetics can provide just that. Our cattle were derived from the need for performance in feedyards and breeding programs, which means they must be fertile, efficient and profitable. The combination of Brahman and Shorthorn genetics have formed a cross that is hardy and effective in a wide range of climates and conditions. The King Ranch: where it all began.
